

Ly Family

From the Killing Fields to the Missions Field

Then he turned toward the woman and said to Simon, "Do you see this woman? I came into your house. You did not give me any water for my feet, but she wet my feet with her tears and wiped them with her hair. You did not give me a kiss...has not stopped kissing my feet." (Luke 7:44-46, NIV).

Drawing Near to God: Lives Restored

Dear Friends,

Tears flowed as burdens were released. Hearts once weighed down by shame encountered forgiveness and dignity. Women who had long believed they were forgotten discovered they are seen, loved, and called by God.

This was the powerful reality of our women's conference last March, where over 200 women from across Cambodia gathered. I spoke from Luke chapter, about a woman who was rejected by society but found acceptance at the feet of Jesus. Her story became their story. The message, "Rejected by others, restored by God," opened hearts as many recognized both their wounds and their worth in His presence.

They returned home transformed—not just healed, but empowered to bring hope and light into their families and communities.

Thank you for standing with us. Your partnership is helping restore lives and raise up women who will impact a nation for God's glory.

Touching Hands, Changing Hearts

Praise and Prayer

- ❖ In our last newsletter, we asked for prayers for the border conflict between Cambodia and Thailand. We praise God that there is a cease-fire agreement. However, tensions remain high along the borders, and the thousands of displaced people in temporary shelters are still unable to return home. Please continue to pray for the situation.
- ❖ While our core ministry is planting churches and training leaders, we also serve the physical needs of over 3,000 children by providing essential education, nutrition, and school supplies. Recently, our partner ministry, OneChild, has begun shifting its vision and direction, which directly impacts our current funding for this specific program. We ask for your prayers for God's wisdom and provision as we navigate these changes and continue showing up for these kids.

We hosted several teams in the last quarter who came to serve alongside us, bringing both practical help and spiritual encouragement to our community. During their time here, they taught English to our young people and led vibrant VBS programs for the children in our schools.

Every lesson, game, and activity was filled with joy, laughter, and the love of Christ. As they spent time with the children—holding hands, playing games, and sharing stories—they were doing more than meeting physical and educational needs. They were building trust, showing care, and pointing each child to God's love. They may have been “touching hands,” but through those simple, intentional moments, they were truly “touching hearts.”

We are deeply grateful for their partnership and servant hearts. The seeds they planted will continue to grow, making an eternal impact in the lives of these children and shaping a brighter future filled with hope.
